Learn more about LSEG

Iran's Guards say they targeted a US early-warning radar in Bahrain

By Reuters

November 13, 2026 4:51 AM GMT+2 · Updated 4 hours ago

Iranian missiles are displayed at the Islamic Revolutionary Guard Corps(IRGC) Aerospace Force Museum in Tehran, Iran, November 4, 2026. Majid Asgaripour/WANA (West Asia News Agency) via... Purchase Licensing Rights Read more

Nov 13 (Reuters) - Iran's Revolutionary Guards said on Friday they targeted a US early-warning radar in Bahrain, the first such claim of an attack on American military assets in a Gulf country since early September.

The Guards said the strike was in retaliation for what they described as an air attack on a telecommunications tower in Iran's southern Sirik county, in Hormozgan province, according to Iranian state media.

> The Reuters Iran Briefing newsletter keeps you informed with the latest developments and analysis of the Iran war. Sign up here.

The claim came amid a fragile lull in the conflict between Iran and the US, which began with US and Israeli strikes on Iran on February 28 and has since spread across the region.

Iran launched missile and drone attacks on US bases in Gulf states and sought to restrict shipping through the Strait of Hormuz, a vital route for global oil and gas supplies. Washington, in turn, imposed a naval blockade on Iranian ports.

There was no immediate comment from the US or Bahrain.

Reporting by Hatem Maher; Editing by Muralikumar Anantharaman and Thomas Derpinghaus

Our Standards: The Thomson Reuters Trust Principles.

Suggested Topics:

Middle East

Purchase Licensing Rights

Read Next

Six-year-old Gaza burn victim caught in Israeli dispute over aid

6 mins ago

